MEd in Educational Leadership
Student Handbook

Revised January 2024

Introduction

The University of Texas at Tyler is part of the University of Texas System that includes 14 institutions located throughout the state. Founded in 1971, UT-Tyler today enrolls more than 10,000 students, consists of seven colleges, and maintains regional campuses in Palestine and Longview, as well as a location in Houston. Representing students from nearly 60 countries, the University of Texas at Tyler offers more than 80 bachelor, master, and doctoral degree programs. Among these is the Master of Education in Educational Leadership. This 100 % online degree program prepares students for TEA's Principal as Instructional Leader (268) Exam and Performance Assessment for Schools Leaders (PASL).

The program curriculum consists of 30 credit hours in 10 courses covering leadership theory and practice using a variety of evaluative, investigative, quantitative, and qualitative research methods in meeting the variety of challenges facing current campus leaders, all in an effort to foster school improvement. All courses are taught in the Spring and Fall semesters. During the Summer semester, all courses are taught with the exception of the practicum courses. Students must complete two practicum courses, write an action research project on the topic of their choice, and take the Principal as Instructional Leader (268) Exam administered by the Texas Education Agency. Selected action research projects are published in the program's online student journal The EDLR Practitioner Review.

Applicants need a valid teaching certificate, at least two years of verifiable teaching, and be currently employed by a Texas school. A Graduate Record Examination score is required if the applicant's GPA is below 3.25 over their last 60 hours of coursework. Prospective students must complete an application for admission, submit a reference, pass a criminal background test, and complete an online admission screening survey. Bachelor's degrees earned from a non-US institution may qualify a student for admission only if approved by an academic committee. In addition, a total TOEFL iBT score of 79 with a speaking subsection score of 26 or higher is necessary for admission.

The Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (SACS) regionally accredits UT-Tyler. Our program is a member of the University Council for Educational Administration, a collective of top research institutions with programs in educational leadership and policy studies. In addition, our Educational Leadership program is ranked #14 nationally by Best Accredited Colleges for Best Online Master's Degrees in Educational Leadership.

UTTyler COLLEGE OF EDUCATION & PSYCHOLOGY

MILITARY SERVICE CONSIDERATIONS

In accordance with 19 TAC 228.35(a)(5)(A), military service members or military veterans may be eligible to receive credit for verified military service, training, clinical and professional experience, or education toward the training, education, work experience, or related requirements (other than certification examinations) for educator service requirements, which are required of all candidates for certification provided that the military service, training, or education is directly related to the certification being sought. U.S. Military Veterans may request additional credits be awarded based upon review of official documentation of military service-related training or coursework. Accepted sources of documentation include Joint Services Transcripts and American Council on Education (ACE) evaluations. Credits from accredited institutions such as the Community College of the Air Force are not reviewed under this policy. Such credits are assessed per standard transfer credit policies and procedures.

To request a review, students must complete a Military Service Credit Evaluation form in conjunction with their Academic Advisor(s) and the Chair of the academic department offering their major, and the Director of Educator Certification & Program Accountability, each of whom must approve all credit recommendations. Any requests for credits applicable toward the Core Curriculum will be subject to review and approval by the Office of the Registrar.

Effective September 1, 2015, TEA waives certain fees for eligible military service members, military veterans, and military spouses. For additional information, please see the TEA website. There are some fee exemptions as well. Please see the requirements to obtain these fee exemptions.

Information regarding military service members, military spouses, and military veterans may be found in the Texas Administrative Code 234.

Policies and Procedures (Military Considerations)

The program and curricula have been designed to effectively prepare candidates to be successful on certification examinations and in the profession.

Any coursework credit considerations must include the following parameters, which have been developed in accordance with Texas Administrative Code (19 TAC 228.35 and 19 TAC 234) and under the discretion of the EPP, and in collaboration with the UT Tyler Office of the Registrar:

- Service, training, clinical and professional experience or education must have been received within the last five years;
- Service, training, clinical and professional experience or education must be directly related to the grade level/content area of the certification being sought;
- There must be strong evidence that any credit considerations would be a replacement for the instruction/content and that candidate performance on certification examinations or professional experiences would not be negatively impacted;

UT Tyler COLLEGE OF EDUCATION & PSYCHOLOGY

- Certification exams may not be waived or credited;
- Field-based experiences (30-hours) cannot be waived or credited unless the candidate has experiences as a long-term substitute as outlined in 19 TAC 228.25(e)(1)(C);
- An EPP may permit a full day clinical teaching assignment up to 5 full days fewer (or up to 10 half days fewer for half-day assignments) than the minimum requirement if due to military leave, based on 19 TAC 228.35(e)(2)(A)(iv); and
- An EPP may permit an internship of up to 30 school days fewer than the minimum if due to military leave, based on 19 TAC 228.35(e)(2)(B)(i).

Additional considerations can be made for our military service members and military veterans on a case-by-case basis. Final determination will be communicated to the candidate by the Director of Educator Certification & Program Accountability.

REQUEST TO SUBSTITUTE PRIOR OR ONGOING SERVICE, TRAINING, OR EDUCATION (Non-Military)

In accordance with 19 TAC 228.35(a)(5)(B), EPPs must develop and implement specific criteria and procedures that may allow those not in military service or military veterans to substitute relevant (prior or ongoing) service, training, or education toward program requirements.

Considerations for substitution cannot include the state's requirements for certification examinations or as part of the internship or clinical teaching requirements, as mentioned in the TAC ruling.

Policies and Procedures (Non-Military Considerations)

Due to the design of the instruction and coursework, any substitutions will be rare and must meet all of the following criteria:

- Service, training or education must have been received by an approved Texas Educator Preparation Program or accredited institution of higher education within the last five years;
- Service, training, or education must be directly tied to the grade level/content area of the certification being sought;
- There must be strong evidence that any credit considerations would be a replacement for the instruction/content and that candidate performance on certification examinations or professional experiences would not be negatively impacted;
- Certification exams may not be waived or credited; and
- Field-based experiences (30-hours) cannot be waived or credited unless the candidate has experience as a long-term substitute as outlined in 19 TAC 228.25(e)(1)(C) or has completed these hours as part of a Texas EPP (completed documentation must be submitted for review).

Additional considerations can be made on a case-by-case basis. Final determination will be communicated to the candidate by the Director of Educator Certification & Program Accountability.

Policy for Candidate Admission Screening Survey

When a candidate completes the survey, it will automatically trigger the survey responses to the following emails:

SOEGraduate@uttyler.edu (tracked when completed) CEPImageNow@uttyler.edu (imaged to student's ImageNow folder)

In addition, it will trigger an email to ogs@uttyler.edu where it will note that the screening survey has been completed and be removed from the student's "To Do" list. Note, applicants will not get the actual survey responses.

Once the assigned reviewer receives the survey responses, at the bottom he or she will see a link that says "Rating Scale & Recommendation." By clicking on that link, a secondary survey opens for the reviewer to rate the responses. The reviewer can have the email with the responses and rating scale open at the same time. At the conclusion of the survey, the reviewer sees the total score for the responses and will select either "acceptable" or "refer to the departmental committee" for further review. When that survey is submitted, an email will be triggered to SOEGraduate and CEPImageNow with the rating and overall recommendation.

Policy for Taking the TEA Principal as Instructional Leader (268) Exam

Passing TEA's state exams is a state requirement for certification; therefore, policies and procedures are in place to encourage and support students at The University of Texas at Tyler. Texas certification candidates must meet all Texas Education Agency requirements and obtain a satisfactory score, as determined by the program, on the diagnostic screening instrument, Certify Teacher Practice Exam, to be eligible to take the state examinations. Upon satisfactory performance on this diagnostic screening instrument, the program coordinator will send a clearance communication, with instructions to request state examination approval to register, to the candidate.

The UT-Tyler College of Education and Psychology certification officer receives the approval request from the candidate and will reply to the candidate with official information and instructions for registering for the appropriate TExES examination. Upon successful completion of all testing requirements and program and/or degree completion, candidates will be instructed to complete the application for certification with the Texas Education Agency.

Texas State Board for Educator Certification (SBEC) TAC §230.21 Educator Assessment policy stipulates candidates are allowed up to four retakes of state certification examinations. If a candidate fails to pass a certification examination after five total attempts, he or she must apply to SBEC for an exception to this policy.

Candidates must pass all appropriate state exams (including the Performance Assessment for School Leaders [PASL]) and apply for the Standard Principal Certification with the State Board for Educator Certification/Texas Education Agency within six months of the completion of their clinical/student teaching, practicum, or program.

Late Applications:

If a student allows the six-month period to go by without passing all state exams and applying for certification, additional preparation will be required for recommendation for approval to test. This additional preparation may include one or more of the following:

- Retaking and passing a TExES practice examination.
- Completing instructional review modules.
- Retaking one or more courses approved by the program coordinator. This may involve being readmitted to the university

- Reapply for admission to the university and, upon acceptance, retake the entire certification program. This last option applies automatically to any former candidates who have waited four years or more to apply for and/or complete state certification testing.

If fewer than four years have passed after program completion, the program coordinator in consultation with the School of Education director will determine the amount of additional preparation required for approval to take the state examinations. Considerations may include the length of time since program completion, changes in program course content and field experience expectations, changes in TEA certification levels, and changes in state certification exams.

Principalship:

Candidates must take and pass the Certify Teacher Practice Exam, which is a representative test of TEA's Principal as Instructional Leader (268) Exam, before being allowed to take the state exam administered by the Texas Education Agency. The practice exam is taken by students enrolled in EDLR 5333. Upon passing the practice exam, students are eligible to take the Principal as Instructional Leader (268) Exam during enrollment in EDLR 5371. For those students not passing the practice exam, remediation assignments are provided through the Certify Teacher program based on specific domains and competencies. It is the student's responsibility to meet the testing requirements of the UT-Tyler College of Education and Psychology and the Texas Education Agency.

Certify Teacher Practice Exam

Before being permitted to register and take the Principal as Instructional Leader (268) Exam administered by the Texas Education Agency (TEA) during EDLR 5371, students must first take the Certify Teacher Practice Exam in EDLR 5333 as the Mid-Term Exam (passing the practice exam is not a requirement of the Mid-Term Exam). However, students must either pass the practice exam or complete a remediation program if a passing score is not achieved in order to register with TEA for the Principal as Instructional Leader (268) Exam while enrolled in EDLR 5371.

Dear Administrator,

(Your name) is enrolled in the Master of Education program at The University of Texas at Tyler. The program, Educational Leadership with Principal Certification, is presented in four blocks of study. Each block is equivalent to a semester. The areas studied in the program are School Culture, Leading Learning, Human Capital, Executive Leadership, Strategic Operations, and Ethics, Equity, and Diversity. Two blocks of study have an applied internship component.

(Your name) is currently enrolled in EDLR 5370 Practicum in Principalship I. The purpose of this course is to provide the student with applied instructional and administrative experiences under the guidance of an experienced principal. The requirements of the course consist of a minimum of 120 clock hours of practical experience as a school administrator and conducting an applied research study on a critical issue in educational leadership. The principal practicum provides practical application of knowledge and skills in educational leadership. In addition, EDLR 5370 provides practical application experiences of knowledge. At the conclusion of each week, the student will log hours in their practicum log. The student's final grade for the course depends upon the successful completion of all assignments, practicum activities log, field experiences, which involve post-observation conferences, and the action research project/paper and presentation.

Please find attached a permission form and list describing the type of activities that the student could engage in during the practicum. (Your name) requests that you not only assist in developing a list of potential activities but also supervise their practicum experience. Please refer to the Effective Principal Mentor Attributes and Qualities in Effective Principal Mentors documents for guidance.

Additional Important Information

During the Practicum, you will work with three (3) school administrators. Below are important definitions of the role of each administration to help you understand the role of your field supervisor in the observation process.

1. Your Site Supervisor – your supervisor who will oversee your practicum and will help you complete the required 120 hours of internship. They will also sign the required documentation.
2. Your Field Supervisor - an experienced current or retired school principal who has been contracted by UT Tyler, who will be assigned to support and coach you throughout this practicum.
3. Your instructor – Dr. Kathy Ray, a former school superintendent, will support you throughout this practicum.

As required by the Texas Education Agency, your field supervisor will observe and coach you as you develop your instructional leadership skills. Given that this Practicum is an online course, we will conduct these observations by watching the videos you will submit (the two lessons and the two post-observation conferences). As indicated above, you will meet with your field supervisor before you conduct the post-observation conferences. These are state-required coaching meetings. The meetings will be held virtually via Zoom.

Given that these observation and coaching sessions are state requirements, you will not receive credit for the Practicum if you fail to submit the videos and/or to participate in the required coaching meetings with your field supervisor.

Your field supervisor will provide written feedback (via Qualtrics) after each post-observation conference meeting. As required by the State, your site supervisor and instructor will receive a copy of the written feedback.

The coaching and feedback shall focus on the development of your leadership skills, aligned to the Texas Principal Standards. A copy of these standards has been posted on Canvas.

Grading of Observations and Post-Conferences

As indicated on the syllabus, all assignments must be completed and submitted to receive credit for The Practicum I. Your field supervisor will award 10 points per component of the observation cycle, when the videos, observation form, and observation notes are submitted on time. Refer to the syllabus for the late work policy and the assignment schedule for due dates. Please note that the following assignments are not the only required assignments required.

You will receive 10 points for each of the following observation components.
1. Lesson videos (2)
2. Observation checklist (videos 1 and 2)
3. Scripted observation notes (video 1 only)
4. Anecdotal observation notes (video 2 only)
5. Post-observation conference videos (2)

Finally, you may count five (5) hours of Practicum time for each of the Post-observation Conference cycles. These activities are all designed to help you complete the required 120 hours and should be included in your time log.

Effective Principal Mentor/Site Supervisor Attributes

Empathy
Strong leaders can connect with others in a way that's free of judgment. When you have an innate ability to see the perspective of another and understand them, you make good decisions even on difficult subjects because your focus is on helping the greater good rather than identifying what caused the difficulty. The ability to empathize with others shows you are a trustworthy individual and earns respect from others.

Curiosity
Curiosity is a trait that seeks to understand and improve when able. By remaining curious, you model the desire to learn and develop professionally, which helps you guide your team by example. A curious nature teaches others that learning and developing is a journey rather than an end goal, and it enables you to facilitate others' learning.

Positivity
Focusing on weaknesses only disengages and discourages others, so staying positive is a coaching skill that is much needed to move a team in a productive direction. Help others see their strengths and validate their hard work. A good leader will help an individual identify their unique abilities and harness those skills to help them improve professionally and sometimes personally.

Persistent
A strong coach is focused on staying the course and helps guide others toward their goals without getting discouraged. They can foresee issues and use obstacles and challenges as a means of improvement. Your persistence will motivate others to keep pressing on despite any difficulties that arise.

Innovation
An essential coaching skill is to lead in developing ideas. Asking probing and open-ended questions of others is a way to help filter these ideas and solve problems creatively. Your ability to formulate questions and focus on solutions rather than problems will support others and assist in maintaining focus on a common goal.

Communication
Another essential skill to be a coach is effective communication. Communicating with clarity and transparency gains the trust of others and ensures that everyone is clear on expectations. Asking for feedback from team members or employees, practicing active listening, and being forthright and articulate when voicing your ideas can help you create an inclusive environment, improve performance, and help employees take ownership and enjoyment in their work.

Sincerity

Good leadership and coaching skills entail a sincere focus on the individual and a genuine desire to help. People will follow those who do not have ulterior motives and take a sincere interest in others. Being passionate about your work, humble in your abilities, and patient with others demonstrates reliability and good intentions.

Guidance

Guiding a team with direction is another good coaching skill that effective leaders have. They can tactfully confront excuses or resistance by reflecting, clarifying, and reforming problems as solutions to gain insight and overcome obstacles.

Qualities in Effective Principal Mentors/Site Supervisors

Leadership Skills
As a principal, you are in charge of a large team of staff, as well as a huge number of students and you are the mediator between students, teachers, and their parents. Therefore, as principal, you must be a strong leader so that students, staff, and parents respect you and listen to what you say. It can be useful for principals to have previous experience in various other teaching leadership roles, such as head of a department or organizer of a co-curricular activity (many principal postings will require you to have this previous experience anyway).

Ability to Adapt and Innovate
One of the skills that all educators, not just principals, should have is the ability to adapt and innovate. We live in a world where technology is constantly evolving and there are constantly new teaching techniques emerging. Principals have to lead by example and must not be afraid of change but rather make changes to the curriculum and teaching style as these new trends and techniques emerge.

Communication Skills
As a principal, you come into contact with many different people: parents, students, and staff members. You, therefore, need to make sure that you communicate any necessary information to them, and appropriately – the way that you would address a student would be different from how you would communicate with a parent or staff member. The most important thing is that you keep all parties informed about what is going on at the school. To communicate with parents, for example, you could send out a weekly newsletter outlining events happening at the school and student achievements for the week. To communicate with staff, you could send out a weekly bulletin with any relevant information they may need to know about students.

Ability to Delegate
There is a common misconception that a good leader is someone who is able to do everything themselves. Whereas, in fact, the best leaders (and therefore the best school principals) know when they should delegate a certain task to someone else. There might be some tasks that other staff members would be better equipped to complete, or sometimes a principal may simply have far too much work to complete themselves and require help from other members of staff to get everything done. This is where being able to delegate specific tasks to other members of staff comes in very handy.

Be Decisive
Another essential quality for a school principal is that they are decisive. Being decisive gives the impression to both staff and students that you know what you are doing and that you are confident in your abilities. This, in turn, increases their confidence in your ability to lead the school. In addition, usually, if you act decisively and therefore quickly, it means that the issue which you are trying to address is also solved more quickly.

Problem-Solving Skills

Problem-solving skills are arguably one of the most important skills for a principal to have since principals are presented daily with a range of problems, from funding issues to students' home issues. If anyone (staff or students) has any kind of problem, then the principal is the person that they will go to in order to help them solve it.

Ability to Prioritize

While a principal hears about many different issues even on the same day, they are not all equally as important. Therefore, a principal must be able to prioritize the most important issues so that they can be dealt with as swiftly as possible.

Be Sensitive and Empathetic

Throughout a school, there will be students, parents, and staff from a wide variety of socioeconomic backgrounds and situations at home. As a principal, you have to be able to empathize with people even though you may not have experienced what they are experiencing. You need to be able to listen actively and give advice and solutions to help them. A kind, empathetic school principal also comes across as far more approachable. You want staff and students to feel like they are able to come to you with any issue.

Be Visible

It is extremely important that principals are seen in the corridors and that they directly interact with students, staff, and parents. This once again makes a principal seem far more approachable to both staff and students. It is also extremely valuable for the principal, as it allows them to get to know the community that they serve and better understand them and their needs.

Relevant Expertise or Knowledge

It may seem obvious, but your mentor should, more often than not, have some kind of relevant background. Maybe they're a few levels or titles ahead of you or have worked in the space you're interested in for some time. But they should be able to help propel you forward because they've been there, seen the landscape, and know what it takes to be successful.

Enthusiasm for Sharing That Expertise

Just as important as your mentor having expertise is their being willing to share it with you. They shouldn't be someone who begrudgingly hands over knowledge and expects figurative payment in return, nor should they reveal things in a vague, manipulative fashion. Rather, they should be open and excited to spread the word. The best mentors give advice not because they like to hear themselves talk, but because they genuinely want others to benefit from the hard-won wisdom they've learned over the course of their careers.

Respectful Attitude

You don't want someone who criticizes you harshly and unconstructively, mistreats you or others close to you, and ultimately gives you a bad name. That makes for an unproductive and frustrating partnership. And on the rare occasions when good mentors act in a less-than-respectful manner, they acknowledge it and apologize authentically.

Eagerness to Invest in Others

Mentoring is an investment. No one gets paid to do it in their day job. Because there's no concrete incentive, you'll want a mentor who finds genuine joy in helping others. Great mentors realize that they're playing a long game, and as a result, are patient in how they guide others down their path. They don't expect immediate gains, and they don't give up easily. More importantly, they care about maintaining and growing their professional relationships.

Give Honest and Direct Feedback

Finding someone respectful is key, but so is finding someone who will give you some tough love when you need it. A good mentor knows how to deliver feedback in a way that's constructive, kind, and direct, and doesn't shy away from being honest because they're afraid of hurting your feelings.

Reflective Listening and Empathy

Your mentor should be asking questions more often than simply telling you what to do. They should show that they're curiosity about your decisions. That curiosity is important because you want someone who can relate to you from your perspective. Oftentimes, people try to impose their own beliefs or ways of approaching things on others, and this can be a good mentor's downfall. So, find someone you can trust to take your values and input into account over their own.

Willingness to Be a Sponsor

Not every mentor has to also be a sponsor, but it can be really helpful to have this kind of mentor in your corner. The difference between the two is action: While a mentor is someone who can guide you with advice and support, a sponsor is an ally who takes it one step further by being someone who is actively advocating for you.

You want staff and students to feel like they are able to come to you with any issue.

Be Visible
It is extremely important that principals are seen in the corridors and that they directly interact with students, staff, and parents. This once again makes a principal seem far more approachable to both staff and students. It is also extremely valuable for the principal, as it allows them to get to know the community that they serve and better understand them and their needs.

Relevant Expertise or Knowledge
It may seem obvious, but your mentor should, more often than not, have some kind of relevant background. Maybe they're a few levels or titles ahead of you or have worked in the space you're interested in for some time. But they should be able to help propel you forward because they've been there, seen the landscape, and know what it takes to be successful.

Enthusiasm for Sharing That Expertise
Just as important as your mentor having expertise is their being willing to share it with you. They shouldn't be someone who begrudgingly hands over knowledge and expects figurative payment in return, nor should they reveal things in a vague, manipulative fashion. Rather, they should be open and excited to spread the word. The best mentors give advice not because they like to hear themselves talk, but because they genuinely want others to benefit from the hard-won wisdom they've learned over the course of their careers.

Respectful Attitude
You don't want someone who criticizes you harshly and unconstructively, mistreats you or others close to you, and ultimately gives you a bad name. That makes for an unproductive and frustrating partnership. And on the rare occasions when good mentors act in a less-than-respectful manner, they acknowledge it and apologize authentically.

Eagerness to Invest in Others
Mentoring is an investment. No one gets paid to do it in their day job. Because there's no concrete incentive, you'll want a mentor who finds genuine joy in helping others. Great mentors realize that they're playing a long game, and as a result, are patient in how they guide others down their path. They don't expect immediate gains, and they don't give up easily. More importantly, they care about maintaining and growing their professional relationships.

Give Honest and Direct Feedback
Finding someone respectful is key, but so is finding someone who will give you some tough love when you need it. A good mentor knows how to deliver feedback in a way that's constructive, kind, and direct, and doesn't shy away from being honest because they're afraid of hurting your feelings.

Reflective Listening and Empathy
Your mentor should be asking questions more often than simply telling you what to do. They should show that they're curiosity about your decisions. That curiosity is important because you want someone who can relate to you from your perspective. Oftentimes, people try to impose their own beliefs or ways of approaching things on others, and this can be a good mentor's downfall. So, find someone you can trust to take your values and input into account over their own.

Willingness to Be a Sponsor
Not every mentor has to also be a sponsor, but it can be really helpful to have this kind of mentor in your corner. The difference between the two is action: While a mentor is someone who can guide you with advice and support, a sponsor is an ally who takes it one step further by being someone who is actively advocating for you.

EFFECTIVE SCHOOLS FRAMEWORK

The Texas Education Agency (TEA) works to improve outcomes for all public school students in the state by providing leadership, guidance, and support to school systems, working towards the vision that every child in Texas is an independent thinker who graduates as an engaged, productive citizen prepared for success in college, a career, or the military.

The goal of the Effective Schools Framework (ESF) is to provide a clear vision for what districts and schools across the state do to ensure an excellent education for all Texas students. The ESF provides the basis for school diagnostics and for aligning resources and support to the needs of each school. The ESF was developed in conjunction with school and district leaders and included a national review of research about what makes high-performing schools excellent. The ESF is part of the TEA's five-year strategic plan and is the starting point for improving internal technical assistance capacity and aligning partners (ESCs, external vendors, etc.) to support the continuous improvement of Texas school districts and campuses. In the spirit of our commitment to data-driven inquiry and the "Plan, Do, Assess" model, we will continuously evaluate the framework to examine effectiveness and make modifications as needed.

At the core of effective schools is effective instruction: interactions between students, teachers, and content determine learning outcomes. This instructional core is strengthened and supported by strategic staffing, high-quality instructional materials and assessments, and positive school culture. Strong school leadership and careful planning encompass and ensure each of these prioritized levers.

The Effective Schools Framework consists of a set of district commitments and, for schools, essential actions. DISTRICT COMMITMENTS describe what local education agencies do to ensure that schools are set up for success. The ESSENTIAL ACTIONS describe what the most effective schools do to support powerful teaching and learning. Beneath each Essential Action is a set of descriptions that define high level performance.

The first essential action listed under each priority is FOUNDATIONAL—schools need to address the foundational actions before moving to those that follow. For clarity, these are framed and correspond to the ESF graphic above.

How is the ESF Structured?

The Effective Schools Framework contains several layers. First, there are 5 Levers that are essential for high performing campuses. Then, within each lever you will find District Commitments, Essential Actions, and Key Practices. Each Key Practice is further defined by the Success Criteria which illustrate what it looks and sounds like when implemented with fidelity.

Lever	The lever is the larger category that high-performing campuses focus on. The ESF is made up of five levers. The components in each lever are the actionable elements to improve student outcomes.
District Commitments	Under each lever you will find the District Commitments. The District Commitments describe what district leaders do to ensure their schools are set up for success. They serve as the foundational structures and systems upon which school-based best practices can be built. This section identifies the actions and assurances taken by the superintendent and district coordinator for school improvement (DCSI).
Essential Actions	Within each lever you will find Essential Actions. The Essential Actions describe what the most effective schools do to support powerful teaching and learning under a specific lever.
Foundational Essential Actions	The first Essential Action in each lever is considered Foundational. Foundational Essential Actions should be addressed first in continuous improvement efforts,as they provide the foundation upon which the other essential actions develop. Campus leaders should identify two to three Foundational Essential Actions from the entire framework to focus continuous improvement efforts.
Key Practices	Each Essential Action includes a set of Key Practices that define what the essential action entails when implemented with fidelity. Campus leaders can utilize Key Practices to define action steps taken to achieve Essential Action Practices.
Success Criteria	The Success Criteria further defines the Key Practice as "lookfors" or evidence. If the Key Practice is being implemented with fidelity, the success criteria can be collected or observed as evidence of success.
Lever

1 / Strong School Leadership and Planning

Effective campus instructional leaders with clear roles and responsibilities develop, implement, and monitor campus systems and structures that are aligned to a compelling school mission, vision, values, and goals rooted in student achievement.

District Commitments:

▸ The district places its most effective school leaders in its highest- need schools.

▸ The district recognizes the unique needs of low-performing schools and provides the flexibility to address those needs.

▸ The district provides opportunities for ongoing support and coaching of the campus leader.

▸ The district provides the campus with adequate funding and sufficient control over its budget to ensure access to necessary resources for the implementation of the school's improvement plan and high-quality instruction to meet students' learning needs.

▸ The district supports principals by protecting their time dedicated to school instructional leadership.

▸ The district ensures that principal supervisors have the necessary authority to create conditions for school success (e.g., remove barriers).

▸ The district policies and practices prioritize principal and principal supervisor instructional leadership (e.g., manageable span of control, time dedicated to instructional practices).

▸ The district has support systems in place to collaborate with school leaders to share the district's vision and mission and establish clear expectations for the district's community to help the school reach common goals.

Essential Actions:

1.1 Develop campus instructional leaders (principal, assistant principal, counselors, teacher leaders) with clear roles and responsibilities

- Campus instructional leaders have clear, written, and transparent roles and responsibilities, and core leadership tasks are scheduled on weekly calendars (observations, debriefs, team meetings).
- Performance expectations are clear, written, measurable, and match the job responsibilities.
- Campus instructional leaders use consistent, written protocols and processes to lead their department, grade-level teams, or other areas of responsibility.
- Campus instructional leaders meet weekly to focus on student progress and formative data.
- Principal improves campus leaders through regularly scheduled, job-embedded professional development consistent with best practices for adult learning, deliberate modeling, and observation and feedback cycles.
1.2 Compelling and aligned vision, mission, goals, values focused on a safe environment, high expectations, and rigorous instruction

- Stakeholders are engaged in creating and continually refining the campus' mission, vision, values, and goals.
- Campus mission, vision, values, and goals reflect strategies and activities grounded in research for all components of campus and instructional leadership.
- Campus messages, policies and practices are aligned to the mission and vision, and demonstrate high expectations and shared ownership for student success, with a drive towards college and career readiness and post-secondary success.

1.3 | Focused plan development and regular monitoring of implementation and outcomes

- There is an improvement plan in place with few focused priorities, clear timelines, milestones, metrics, and task owners that address the root causes of low performance.
- Campus leaders monitor plan implementation and hold task owners accountable for execution of the work.
- Campus leaders regularly use data and other evidence to track progress towards intended outcomes.
- If milestones and benchmarks are not met, campus leaders make modifications to reach the required result.
- Data systems exist to track all discipline referrals, attendance, and interventions and the data is regularly reviewed to identify trends and adapt accordingly.

Effective Schools Framework Theory of Action

The Effective Schools Framework is a tool intended for all Texas schools. The Texas Education Agency (TEA) has codified all researched best practices into one common framework that should be used by district and campus leaders to improve system effectiveness and student outcomes.

If districts and schools:

Build a common vision of the highest leverage school practices (ESF);

» and assess their current practices in relation to that vision (self-assessment/diagnostic);

» and prioritize the identified gaps;

» and connect to effective capacity builders to help them in this work (Vetted Improvement Partners);

» and receive ongoing, targeted support during plan implementation and change management;

Then, schools and student outcomes will improve.

Build a Common Vision · Assess · Prioritize Gaps · Connect with Capacity Builders · Targeted Support
2 / Strategic Staffing

Campus leadership retains effective, well-supported teachers by strategically recruiting, selecting, assigning, and inducting teachers so that all students have access to high-quality educators.

District Commitments:

▶ The district provides the campus with sufficient control over teacher hiring and placement.
▶ The district provides incentives for the strongest teachers to work in the lowest-performing schools.
▶ The district effectively recruits adequate numbers of qualified candidates.
▶ The district has timely, efficient, and responsive hiring processes.
▶ The district makes it possible for high-needs schools to be fully staffed by July 1st.

▶ The district provides efficient organizational structures, processes, and supports to ensure opportunities for induction.
▶ The district provides an evaluation system that identifies low and high performers and allows for opportunities to remove low performing staff.
▶ District policies and practices ensure that campuses have effective, well-supported teachers.

Essential Action:

2.1 Recruit, select, assign, induct, and retain a full staff of highly qualified educators

- The campus implements ongoing and proactive recruitment strategies that include many sources for high-quality candidates.
- Clear selection criteria, protocols, hiring, and induction processes are in place and align with the school's vision, mission, values, and goals.
- Campus leaders implement targeted and personalized strategies to retain high-performing staff.
- Teacher placements are strategic based on student need and teacher strengths.
- Grade-level and content-area teams have strong, supported teacher leaders trained in adult learning facilitation and team dynamics.
- Preferred substitutes are recruited and retained.
Lever

3 / Positive School Culture

Campus systems support positive school culture through explicit behavioral expectations, school-wide culture routines, proactive and responsive student support services, and involved families and communities.

District Commitments:

▶ The district provides campuses with best practice resources and tools for engaging families (i.e., translation services, parent/student surveys, online communication structures).
▶ The district provides data systems to track pertinent school culture data (e.g., discipline referrals, attendance, campus climate).

▶ The district provides campuses with access to external student support services.
▶ The district ensures that campus buildings are well maintained, safe, and conducive to learning.
▶ District policies, practices, and support align with and promote positive school culture.

Essential Actions:

3.1 — Explicit school-wide behavioral expectations and culture routines

- Campus instructional leaders provide clear expectations, training and support so that teachers implement best practices for establishing and maintaining a productive classroom learning environment throughout the school.
- Staff implement clear school-wide procedures and provide opportunities for practice that ensure safe and efficient student transitions and gatherings.
- Campus leaders establish and ensure all staff and students understand a system of incentives and consequences and consistently implement the system with fidelity.
3.2 — Proactive and responsive student support services

- The school has a campus-wide program to proactively teach mental health and wellness skills to students.
- School staff meets frequently to identify individual student needs and work together to support and monitor individual progress, behavior, and mental health needs.
- Students are provided with the support services (e.g., counseling, mentoring, external service referrals) that address their needs.

3.3 — Involving families and community

- The campus creates an inclusive and welcoming environment that engages all families in critical aspects of student learning.
- Systems are in place to engage families on a regular basis about their child's performance in a positive, constructive, and personalized way, including their child's college and career preparation and postsecondary success.
- Multiple communication strategies with families are integrated into teacher roles and responsibilities.
- Family and community engagement and impact data are reviewed regularly, and plans are adapted as needed.
Lever

4 / High-Quality Instructional Materials and Assessments

All students engage daily with TEKS-aligned, high-quality instructional materials and assessments that support learning at appropriate levels of rigor.

District Commitments:

▶ District policies support the effective use of standards-aligned, high quality instructional materials and assessments.

▶ The district provides access to interim assessments aligned to the standards and the expected level of rigor.

▶ When instructional materials are adopted, the district provides the campus with standards-aligned, high quality instructional materials that include the full unit and daily lesson plans, aligned assessments, scope and sequence, integrated supports to meet the needs of all students including special populations, and all necessary materials for implementation with fidelity.

▶ When instructional materials are developed, the district provides tools and resources to support the development of unit and daily lesson plans, aligned assessments, integrated supports to meet the needs of all students including special populations, and all necessary materials for implementation.

▶ The district ensures campuses have an assessment calendar aligned to the scope and sequence.

Essential Action:

4.1 Daily use of high-quality instructional materials

- Teachers have access to and use high-quality instructional materials that fully cover state standards, are aligned to research-based instructional strategies, and meet the needs of all students, including special populations.
- Campus clearly outlines purpose of each assessment, when it is administered and how results are used to support student learning.
- When instructional materials have been adopted and/or provided to teachers, campus leaders provide resources, training, and support for teachers to implement adopted instructional materials through internalization protocols, teacher planning time, and monitoring the rigor of taught lessons.
- When instructional materials are developed by teachers, campus leaders provide resources and support teachers to develop units, lessons, and assessments that are high quality.
Lever
5 / Effective Instruction

Campus leaders provide teachers with job-embedded professional development, including observation and feedback cycles, and access to time and data needed to reflect, adjust, and deliver instruction that meets the needs of all students.

District Commitments:

▸ The district ensures that campus instructional leaders receive initial training and ongoing coaching to support the implementation of instructional leadership systems (feedback on instructional materials alignment and use, data-driven instruction, leading effective professional development, and observation and feedback).

▸ District policies, practices, and provided resources support effective instruction in schools.

▸ For assessments that are district provided and graded, the district ensures that schools receive detailed reports within two instructional days.

▸ The district provides schools with access to student academic, behavioral, and on-track to graduate data (present and historical).

▸ The district has effective systems for identifying and supporting struggling learners.

▸ The district provides an interim data assessment platform to capture assessment data by item and student level.

▸ The district's annual academic calendar includes days for school based professional development activities that align with the assessment calendar and allow for data-driven reflection.

Essential Actions:

5.1 Professional development for effective classroom instruction

- Campus instructional leaders provide training and support so that teachers consistently implement content specific best practices.
- Campus instructional leaders provide training and support so that teachers consistently implement research based best practices for delivering rigorous instruction in any content.
- Campus instructional leaders provide training and support to teachers on consistently implementing strategies for inclusion and support for students who are members of special populations groups.

5.2 Build teacher capacity through observation and feedback cycles

- Campus instructional leaders use established tools and processes to conduct observations, capture trends, and track progress over time.
- Campus instructional leaders determine the frequency of observations based on teacher needs and student results on formative assessments.
- Campus instructional leaders lead observation debrief conversations as soon as possible (within 2-3 school days) of observation and focus on the implementation of a high leverage goal or action step.
- Observation debrief conversations feature follow-up on prior goals or action steps, clear models, and opportunities to practice.

5.3 Data-driven instruction

- Campus instructional leaders review disaggregated data to monitor the progress of all students, provide evidence-based feedback to teachers, and inform instructional responses.
- Campus leaders facilitate a consistent process for teachers, individually and in PLCs, to analyze data, identify trends in student misconceptions, determine the root cause as to why students may not have learned the concept, and create plans to respond.
- Campus leaders provide teachers with protected time for in-depth conversations about formative student data and possible adjustments to instructional delivery.
- Student progress toward measurable goals (e.g., % of class and individual student mastering of objectives, individual student fluency progress, etc.) is visible in every classroom and throughout the school to foster student ownership and goal setting.

5.4 MTSS for students with learning gaps

- All staff are engaged in coordinated and proactive planning to identify students who have significant learning gaps or who lack key foundational skills and provide them with timely interventions throughout the year.
- All teachers use a student tracking system that includes assessment information, course grades, teacher referrals, and attendance to monitor individual student progress and the intensity and schedule of interventions.
- Teachers or other school staff keep families informed and involved in the process of providing interventions for struggling learners.

Effective Schools Framework Diagnostic

To ensure campuses and districts are appropriately prioritizing Essential Actions for continuous improvement efforts, the ESF Diagnostic Process serves as an effective tool to clearly identify strengths and areas of growth through the lens of an unbiased ESF Facilitator. Through this process a campus can guarantee they are putting effort into the highest leverage action steps and narrow their focus to improve student outcomes

The ESF Diagnostic process is a collaborative effort between the campus and district leadership team facilitated by a trained ESF Facilitator. District leadership support throughout this process is critical as district commitments are the enabling factor for campus success. The diagnostic process will require campus and district leadership to walk side-by-side through reflection and evidence collection activities that support the overall analysis of campus practices and determine district commitments.

The results of an ESF Diagnostic provide a detailed final report that clearly outlines synthesized evidence collected from artifacts, observations, and focus groups, aligned specifically to the Effective Schools Framework. The trained ESF Facilitator will facilitate discussion between the campus and district leadership, using the evidence to collaboratively determine the prioritized focus areas for improvement. The final report will be left as a tool for the district and campus to use to refine their goals and action steps to locally improve student outcomes.

Success Criteria

Success Criteria further define Key Practices as evidence or look-fors. During an ESF Diagnostic, the trained ESF Facilitator will collect and analyze evidence against the defined Success Criteria for each Key Practice. For example in Essential Action 1.1 Develop campus instructional leaders (principal, assistant principal, counselors, teacher leaders) with clear roles and responsibilities.

Key Practice	Success Criteria
Campus instructional leaders have clear, written, and transparent roles and responsibilities, and core leadership tasks are scheduled on weekly calendars (observations, debriefs, team meetings).	• Comprehensive list of responsibilities, including teachers assigned for supervision. • Weekly calendars show scheduled time for observations/ feedback of classroom instruction, PLCs, and key data meetings.
Artifacts	Observations	Stakeholder Feedback
A facilitator will request artifacts related to the list of responsibilities and weekly calendars as reflected in the success criteria.	A facilitator will observe during the campus visit to determine if leaders are enacting responsibilities outlined in artifacts to include daily responsibilities and attending weekly meetings.	During focus groups and interviews, the facilitator will confirm that the practices are taking place consistently and are regularly monitored.

Make a commitment to consistently monitor practices through quick data collections using Success Criteria as your baseline. What artifacts and observable evidence have you collected to determine implementation? How would stakeholders (teachers, students, parents) explain the consistency and fidelity of these practices?

The campus implements ongoing and proactive recruitment strategies that include many sources for high-quality candidates.	❒ Identifies targeted sources (Colleges of Ed, ESC, ACP, online tools) with ongoing and recurring relationships. ❒ Uses referrals from current high-performing teachers in the recruitment and selection of staff. ❒ Develops and strategically deploys marketing materials that present the school as an attractive place to work. ❒ Implements consistent ways to track success rates of different recruitment efforts, including an agreed upon definition of a high-quality candidate.
Clear selection criteria, protocols, hiring and induction processes are in place and align with the school's vision, mission, values, and goals.	❒ Criteria is established prior to selection activities and includes demonstration of content knowledge, belief in the potential of all students, and willingness to learn and develop. ❒ Interviews include demonstration lessons and formal interviews with current high-performing teachers to ensure alignment to vision, mission, values, and goals.
Campus leaders implement targeted and personalized strategies to retain high-performing staff.	❒ High-performing teachers are identified based on improving student outcomes and willingness to learn and develop. ❒ Personalized strategies are employed to retain high performing staff including leadership opportunities and recognition.
Teacher placements are strategic based on student need and teacher strengths.	❒ Content expertise, previous achievement results for both staff and students, and diversity amongst grade-level and content teams are all considered during assignment of staff.
Grade-level and content-area teams have strong, supported teacher leaders trained in adult learning facilitation and team dynamics.	❒ Selection and assignment of teacher leaders is based on demonstrated track record of student achievement and adult leadership skills. ❒ Targeted training includes adult facilitation and team dynamics. ❒ Ongoing support includes administrative observation/modeling of meeting facilitation and performance coaching.
Preferred substitutes are recruited and retained.	❒ Effective substitutes are identified and prioritized in short-term placement/deployment. ❒ Ineffective substitutes are also identified and de-prioritized/prohibited.

Essential Actions Success Criteria

Lever #3: Positive School Culture

Essential Action 3.1: Explicit school-wide behavioral expectations and culture routines

Key Practice	Success Criteria
Campus instructional leaders provide clear expectations, training and support so that teachers implement best practices for establishing and maintaining a productive classroom learning environment throughout the school.	❒ Campus leadership has communicated clear school-wide expectations for student and adult actions to both staff and students. ❒ Campus calendar indicates dedicated time for training and ongoing professional development focused on classroom culture and management. ❒ Teachers and campus leaders use a framework for classroom management that features high leverage practices to maximize instruction and facilitate a productive learning environment (setting clear behavioral expectations, routines and procedures, physical classroom layout, and student engagement strategies). ❒ Campus leaders develop teachers to build a sense of belonging in their classrooms through setting high academic expectations, soliciting and responding to student feedback, and providing equitable opportunities for classroom participation.
Staff implement clear school-wide procedures and provide opportunities for practice that ensure safe and efficient student transitions and gatherings.	❒ School wide routines include steps for students that are clear, action-oriented, and easy to remember. ❒ School wide routines include clear steps for adults to take to support students in meeting the expectations of routines. ❒ Staff and students demonstrate safe and effective transitions and describe the routines for safe and effective transitions and gatherings, such as class changes and student meals.
Campus leaders establish and ensure all staff and students understand a system of incentives and consequences and consistently implement the system with fidelity.	❒ Clear campus-wide guidelines exist for immediate next steps when a student does not fully meet expectations. ❒ There is a system of rewards and consequences within the school-wide behavior system that is consistently implemented. ❒ Staff uses consistent responses to student behaviors. ❒ Schools have a system in place that positively reinforces students who model expectations and demonstrate behaviors that reflect campus values.

Essential Actions Success Criteria

Lever #4: High-Quality Instructional Materials & Assessments

Essential Action 4.1: Daily use of high-quality instructional materials

Key Practice	Success Criteria
Teachers have access to and use high-quality instructional materials that fully cover state standards, are aligned to research-based instructional strategies, and meet the needs of all students, including special populations.	❒ Instructional materials, including yearly scope and sequences, unit plans, and lesson plans, fully cover the TEKS and ELPS. ❒ Instructional materials include research-based instructional strategies for RLA, specifically explicit and systematic practice with foundational literacy skills, as well as practice with grade-level complex texts, text-based responses, and building knowledge and vocabulary. ❒ Instructional materials are aligned to research-based instructional strategies for math, specifically balancing conceptual and procedural skills and fluency, ensuring time and effort is focused on the most important topics and TEKS, concepts connect across units and grade levels, and students have opportunities for productive struggle with math problems. ❒ Instructional materials connect within and across grade levels, resulting in a strategic progression of learning so that new understandings are built on previous foundations. ❒ Instructional materials include implementation supports for teachers to maintain high expectations, increase engagement, and address the needs of all learners, including special populations.
Campus clearly outlines purpose of each assessment, when it is administered and how results are used to support student learning.	❒ Assessments throughout the year build up to at least the same rigor as the top-line assessment (STAAR, ACT, AP, etc.) in alignment with the scope and sequence. ❒ Interim assessments are used to measure mastery of grade level standards at a specific point in time and not used to make instructional decisions. ❒ Formative assessments are used to measure progress towards mastery of specific grade level standard(s) and support instructional decision making in alignment with the curriculum design.
When instructional materials have been adopted and/or provided to teachers, campus leaders provide resources, training, and support for teachers to implement adopted instructional materials through internalization protocols, teacher planning time, and monitoring the rigor of taught lessons.	❒ Campus leaders regularly monitor the usage and implementation of provided adopted materials as designed. ❒ Campus leaders provide feedback on teacher pacing and adherence to the level of rigor in the materials, including the use of student diagnostic and progress monitoring data. ❒ Campus leaders provide the support and resources for teachers to engage in regular internalization protocols, resulting in teachers understanding the lesson outcomes and activities of lessons. ❒ Teachers have sufficient planning time to internalize and/or prepare lessons, analyze assessments, and collaborate.
When instructional materials are developed by teachers, campus leaders provide resources and support teachers to develop units, lessons, and assessments that are high quality.	❒ Campus leaders provide professional development and review lesson plans for alignment between standards, daily objectives, knowledge and skills throughout the lesson, and exit tickets. ❒ Campus leaders provide professional development and review lesson plans and give feedback to ensure lesson activities are in alignment with the objective of the lesson as well as content-specific research-based instructional strategies. ❒ Teachers have sufficient planning time to internalize and/or prepare lessons, analyze assessments, and collaborate. ❒ Campus instructional leaders ensure lessons feature embedded formative assessments and use that data to inform their instruction.

Essential Actions Success Criteria

Lever #5: Effective Instruction

Essential Action 5.1: Professional development for effective classroom instruction

Key Practice	Success Criteria
Campus instructional leaders provide training and support so that teachers consistently implement content specific best practices.	❏ Teachers and campus leaders use frameworks for content specific pedagogical practices that reflect research based instructional strategies and are aligned to campus instructional materials (for example, in math pushing students to choose appropriate tools or techniques to solve problems). ❏ Leaders provide teachers with effective initial training and ongoing support to ensure instruction contains content specific pedagogical practices. ❏ Campus calendar indicates dedicated time for training and ongoing job embedded professional development on content specific teaching practices.
Campus instructional leaders provide training and support so that teachers consistently implement research based best practices for delivering rigorous instruction in any content.	❏ Teachers and campus leaders use a framework for instruction that contains high leverage practices relevant in any content (independent practice, monitoring student work, strategies that place cognitive lift on students such as wait time, encouraging discourse, and requiring evidence to support claims). ❏ Teachers and campus leaders use a framework for instruction that contains high leverage practices for affirming students' needs and experiences (e.g., activating prior knowledge, encouraging discourse, and facilitating interrogation of concepts from a variety of perspectives). ❏ Leaders provide teachers with effective up-front training and ongoing coaching to ensure instruction contains best practice in any subject, including affirming students' needs and experiences. ❏ Campus calendar indicates dedicated time for training and ongoing job embedded professional development on universal best teaching practices.
Campus instructional leaders provide training and support to teachers on consistently implementing strategies for inclusion and support for students who are members of special populations groups.	❏ Campus calendar indicates dedicated time for training and ongoing professional development focused on differentiation of tier 1 instructional materials for all learners. ❏ Campus-wide training and professional development focuses on the incorporation of proactive instructional approaches that address flexibility in the way information is presented, how students respond and demonstrate understanding, and how students engage in instruction. ❏ Campus-wide training and ongoing support leads teachers to be responsive to IEP goals, goals for students who are Emergent Bilingual and other diverse learning needs when structuring student tasks, as evidenced by multiple paths to student demonstration of mastery during the lesson's execution.

Essential Actions Success Criteria

Essential Action 5.2: Build teacher capacity through observation and feedback cycles

Key Practice	Success Criteria
Campus instructional leaders use established tools and processes to conduct observations, capture trends, and track progress over time.	❒ Campus observation tools feature a list of teaching practices involving both management/engagement and rigor (for example, high quality instructional materials observation tools, T-TESS, Get Better Faster, Teach Like a Champion, etc.). ❒ Campus leaders have a system to observe and track the level of teacher implementation of teaching practices as well as progress over time.
Campus instructional leaders determine the frequency of observations based on teacher needs and student results on formative assessments.	❒ Observations take place at a cadence responsive to teacher effectiveness and need, as well as student formative assessment results. ❒ All teachers experience observation and feedback, not just evaluation, at minimum quarterly throughout the school year.
Campus instructional leaders lead observation debrief conversations as soon as possible (within 2-3 school days) of observation and focus on the implementation of a high leverage goal or action step.	❒ Debrief conversations arrive at a clear goal or action step for teacher development that is high leverage and observable. ❒ Teacher goals or action steps are responsive to the teacher's current proficiency. ❒ Instructional leaders invest teachers in goals or action steps through a clear articulation of its impact on student achievement.
Observation debrief conversations feature follow-up on prior goals or action steps, clear models, and opportunities to practice.	❒ During observation debrief conversations, instructional leaders check-in with teachers on their progress with prior development goals, giving feedback on their implementation. ❒ Instructional leaders clearly communicate the area of focus, goal, or action step to the teacher. ❒ Instructional leaders show a model of the practice they would like teachers to implement, and discuss with the teacher how and when to implement the practice in their classroom. ❒ Teachers practice, set a time to implement the goal or action step, and receive feedback on their area of focus.

Essential Actions Success Criteria

Essential Action 5.3: Data-driven instruction

Key Practice	Success Criteria
Campus instructional leaders review disaggregated data to monitor the progress of all students, provide evidence-based feedback to teachers, and inform instructional responses.	❐ Assessment calendars include windows for data analysis. ❐ Campus instructional leaders meet after each relevant assessment period to disaggregate and review data in order to make data informed decisions. ❐ Coaching and support of teachers is informed by data, including an analysis of student work samples to assess curricular rigor, determine the impact of instruction, and make decisions alongside teachers to improve instruction.
Campus leaders facilitate a consistent process for teachers, individually and in PLCs, to analyze data, identify trends in student misconceptions, determine the root cause as to why students may not have learned the concept, and create plans to respond.	❐ Understand the task, any related texts and standards and create or internalize the exemplar: Unpack the standard into knowledge and skills, create or internalize the teacher exemplar to confirm expected level of rigor, and ensure knowledge and skills reflect all appropriate paths to mastery. ❐ Analyze and sort student work: categorize student work into high, medium, and low levels of mastery, and analyze to look for trends in student misconceptions. ❐ Identify the highest leverage gap: Determine key conceptual and procedural gaps between student work and exemplar, name the specific student error and misunderstanding that if corrected would yield the greatest increase in mastery. ❐ Plan the response: Identify adjustments to make to upcoming instructional opportunities where students will revisit unmastered concepts and/or concepts foundational to the current or upcoming unit of instruction. ❐ Practice the response: Stand and deliver portions of your planned instructional response with real-time feedback, repeating as necessary until practice is strong. ❐ Follow Through: Write the corrective instruction action plan, including the identified gap and when the planned response will take place, specific students to be addressed, and the follow-up date for reassessment and further data review.
Campus leaders provide teachers with protected time for in-depth conversations about formative student data and possible adjustments to instructional delivery.	❐ The master schedule includes at least one block weekly for teacher teams to meet for the purpose of reflecting on student work. ❐ Teacher team meeting agendas are developed utilizing a common protocol. ❐ Teacher team meetings include discussion of formative student data, effective instructional strategies, and possible adjustments to instructional delivery.
Student progress toward measurable goals (e.g., % of class and individual student mastering of objectives, individual student fluency progress, etc.) is visible in every classroom and throughout the school to foster student ownership and goal setting.	❐ All classrooms include at least one visible student progress tracking artifact, which is regularly updated. ❐ Campus hallways include at least one visible student progress tracking artifact, which is regularly updated.

Back to School Workshop: High Leverage Teaching Practices
August 16, 2017

High-Leverage Practices:

High-leverage practices are the basic fundamentals of teaching. These practices are used constantly and are critical to helping students learn important content. The high-leverage practices are also central to supporting students' social and emotional development. These high-leverage practices are used across subject areas, grade levels, and contexts. They are "high-leverage" not only because they matter to student learning but because they are basic for advancing skill in teaching.

Leading a group discussion

In a group discussion, the teacher and all of the students work on specific content together, using one another's ideas as resources. The purposes of a discussion are to build collective knowledge and capability in relation to specific instructional goals and to allow students to practice listening, speaking, and interpreting. The teacher and a wide range of students contribute orally, listen actively, and respond to and learn from others' contributions.

Explaining and modeling content, practices, and strategies

Explaining and modeling are practices for making a wide variety of content, academic practices, and strategies explicit to students. Depending on the topic and the instructional purpose, teachers might rely on simple verbal explanations, sometimes with accompanying examples or representations. In teaching more complex academic practices and strategies, such as an algorithm for carrying out a mathematical operation or the use of metacognition to improve reading comprehension, teachers might choose a more elaborate kind of explanation that we are calling "modeling." Modeling includes verbal explanation, but also thinking aloud and demonstrating.

Eliciting and interpreting individual students' thinking

Teachers pose questions or tasks that provoke or allow students to share their thinking about specific academic content in order to evaluate student understanding, guide instructional decisions, and surface ideas that will benefit other students. To do this effectively, a teacher draws out a student's thinking through carefully-chosen questions and tasks and considers and checks alternative interpretations of the student's ideas and methods.

Diagnosing particular common patterns of student thinking and development in a subject-matter domain

Although there are important individual and cultural differences among students, there are also common patterns in the ways in which students think about and develop understanding and skill in relation to particular topics and problems. Teachers who are familiar with common patterns of student thinking and development and who are fluent in anticipating or identifying them are able to work more effectively and efficiently as they plan and implement instruction and evaluate student learning.

Implementing norms and routines for classroom discourse and work

Each discipline has norms and routines that reflect the ways in which people in the field construct and share knowledge. These norms and routines vary across subjects but often include establishing hypotheses, providing evidence for claims, and showing one's thinking in detail. Teaching students what they are, why they are important, and how to use them is crucial to building understanding and capability in a given subject. Teachers may use explicit explanation, modeling, and repeated practice to do this.

Coordinating and adjusting instruction during a lesson

Teachers must take care to coordinate and adjust instruction during a lesson in order to maintain coherence, ensure that the lesson is responsive to students' needs, and use time efficiently. This includes explicitly connecting parts of the lesson, managing transitions carefully, and making changes to the plan in response to student progress.

Specifying and reinforcing productive student behavior

Clear expectations for student behavior and careful work on the teacher's part to teach productive behavior to students, reward it, and strategically redirect off-task behavior help create classrooms that are productive learning environments for all. This practice includes not only skills for laying out classroom rules and managing truly disruptive behavior, but for recognizing the many ways that children might act when they actually are engaged and for teaching students how to interact with each other and the teacher while in class.

Implementing organizational routines

Teachers implement routine ways of carrying out classroom tasks in order to maximize the time available for learning and minimize disruptions and distractions. They organize time, space, materials, and students strategically and deliberately teach students how to complete tasks such as lining up at the door, passing out papers, and asking to participate in class discussion. This can include demonstrating and rehearsing routines and maintaining them consistently.

Setting up and managing small group work

Teachers use small group work when instructional goals call for in-depth interaction among students and in order to teach students to work collaboratively. To use groups effectively, teachers choose tasks that require and foster collaborative work, issue clear directions that permit groups to work semi-independently, and implement mechanisms for holding students accountable for both collective and individual learning. They use their own time strategically, deliberately choosing which groups to work with, when, and on what.

Building respectful relationships with students

Teachers increase the likelihood that students will engage and persist in school when they establish positive, individual relationships with them. Techniques for doing this include greeting students positively every day, having frequent, brief, "check in" conversations with students to demonstrate care and interest, and following up with students who are experiencing difficult or special personal situations.

Talking about a student with parents or other caregivers

Regular communication between teachers and parents/guardians supports student learning. Teachers communicate with parents to provide information about students' academic progress, behavior, or development; to seek information and help; and to request parental involvement in school. These communications may take place in person, in writing, or over the phone. Productive communications are attentive to considerations of language and culture and designed to support parents and guardians in fostering their child's success in and out of school.

Learning about students' cultural, religious, family, intellectual, and personal experiences and resources for use in instruction

Teachers must actively learn about their particular students in order to design instruction that will meet their needs. This includes being deliberate about trying to understand the cultural norms for communicating and collaborating that prevail in particular communities, how certain cultural and religious views affect what is considered appropriate in school, and the topics and issues that interest individual students and groups of students. It also means keeping track of what is happening in students' personal lives so as to be able to respond appropriately when an out-of-school experience affects what is happening in school.

Setting long-term and short-term learning goals for students

Clear goals referenced to external standards help teachers ensure that all students learn expected content. Explicit goals help teachers to maintain coherent, purposeful, and equitable instruction over time. Setting effective goals involves analysis of student knowledge and skills in relation to established standards and careful efforts to establish and sequence interim benchmarks that will help ensure steady progress toward larger goals.

Designing single lessons and sequences of lessons

Carefully-sequenced lessons help students develop deep understanding of content and sophisticated skills and practices. Teachers design and sequence lessons with an eye toward providing opportunities for student inquiry and discovery and include opportunities for students to practice and master foundational concepts and skills before moving on to more advanced ones. Effectively-sequenced lessons maintain a coherent focus while keeping students engaged; they also help students achieve appreciation of what they have learned.

Checking student understanding during and at the conclusion of lessons

Teachers use a variety of informal but deliberate methods to assess what students are learning during and between lessons. These frequent checks provide information about students' current level of competence and help the teacher adjust instruction during a single lesson or from one lesson to the next. They may include, for example, simple questioning, short performance tasks, or journal or notebook entries.

Selecting and designing formal assessments of student learning

Effective summative assessments provide teachers with rich information about what students have learned and where they are struggling in relation to specific learning goals. In composing and selecting assessments, teachers consider validity, fairness, and efficiency. Effective summative assessments provide both students and teachers with useful information and help teachers evaluate and design further instruction.

Interpreting the results of student work, including routine assignments, quizzes, tests, projects, and standardized assessments

Student work is the most important source of information about the effectiveness of instruction. Teachers must analyze student productions, including assessments of all kinds, looking for patterns that will guide their efforts to assist specific students and the class as a whole and inform future instruction.

Providing oral and written feedback to students

Effective feedback helps focus students' attention on specific qualities of their work; it highlights areas needing improvement; and delineates ways to improve. Good feedback is specific, not overwhelming in scope, and focused on the academic task, and supports students' perceptions of their own capability. Giving skillful feedback requires the teacher to make strategic choices about the frequency, method, and content of feedback and to communicate in ways that are understandable by students.

Analyzing instruction for the purpose of improving it

Learning to teach is an ongoing process that requires regular analysis of instruction and its effectiveness. Teachers study their own teaching and that of their colleagues in order to improve their understanding of the complex interactions between teachers, students, and content and of the impact of particular instructional approaches. Analyzing instruction may take place individually or collectively and involves identifying salient features of the instruction and making reasoned hypotheses for how to improve.
